

Student Preview

In the latest Blackboard update, Blackboard has introduced “Student Preview” mode. As an instructor, you want to be confident that your course is well designed and functions as intended - before your students see it. Use student preview to review the course content and validate the course behaviors, such as those that control the availability of course content or require a particular interaction from the student to be triggered.

The Student Preview function appears in the top-right corner of your course pages, next to the Change Course Theme function:

With Student Preview, you can experience your course exactly as your students do. While in student preview mode, you can do the following student activities:

- Submit assignments
- Take tests
- Create blog and discussion posts
- Create journal and wiki entries
- View student tools, such as My Grades

For more information about enabling and using Student Preview mode in your Blackboard course, go to the Course Management section on this website and choose the Student Preview button.

For more help on using Blackboard 9.1 go to <http://tinyurl.com/csng4wk> or visit the Blackboard On Demand site at <http://ondemand.blackboard.com/>